The institution is dedicated to the cause of higher education and has produced many administrators, Academicians, Scientists, Social workers, Intellectuals, Computer Professionals and eminent Personalities in different walks of life.

ABOUT THE DEPARTMENT

In the Academic Year 2000-2001, the magnanimous Management of our College annexed an exclusive Women Section in Commerce (UG) under the Self-Financing Stream, in addition to the Aided section, with the vision of imparting Education to the Women Students. With the growing needs in Women's Education, the PG Course in Commerce was also introduced exclusively for Women Students during the Academic Year 2002-2003. The Management introduced additional Self-Finance Men Section in Commerce (UG) during the year 2004-2005 and the PG Course for Self-Finance Men in Commerce was started during the year 2009-2010. At present, the Post-Graduate Department of Commerce(SF) has 12 sections at UG level and 2 sections at PG level with a total strength of 835 Students in the SF-Men Stream and 825 Students in the SF-Women Stream. To be on par with the objective of imparting quality education, the Department has equipped itself with adequate number of Qualified staff in its Faculty Profile. Currently, the Department is backed by the support of 23 Male Staff Members under the SF-Men Stream and 22 Women Staff Members under the SF-Women Stream. The PG Department of Commerce (SF) is organising a One-day National Conference on 29th September 2018.

THEME OF THE CONFERENCE

Since the dawn of the new millennium, Indian businesses are experiencing a rapid change in the existing technology environment, which is due to the uncertainty of competitors, products or services, business

With growing competition of varying scale, we see a rise in the offering of products/services with higher functionality, at a lower price and improved customer experience. Their attractive business models constantly evolve to stay relevant in the market and enable customers to meet their demands anywhere and anytime.

The digital evolution of the business is here, and no industry is immune from its impact. With this rapidly changing technology environment, businesses are pinpointing sources of these uncertainties defining a path ahead and making required strategic and operational adjustments. This becomes an opportunity to be grabbed for creating something new and immediate valuable.

In the challenging new scenario, business has found a need for a journey of continuous improvement for the organisation to achieve sustainable growth and long-term survival. Business experience in the digital era is about adopting a holistic approach to strengthening the management systems and processes by leveraging the technological advancements for organisational growth and productivity improvements. We will call this approach as Digital Business Excellence.

The rise of the digital era has a profound impact on all aspects of our life, economic, social as well as other. For researchers, the digital era has opened a number of new fields, increased data availability, facilitated competition, led to a number of technological developments that improve the quality and increase the ease of the research and had a number of other positive impacts. But digital era also changed the dynamics of how systems evolve, interact, and consequently opened a number of challenges. Within the fields of economics and business, the emergence of the new digital era is linked to the establishment of the new economic, technology-based growth and the continuous search for the optimal business model.

Such business models should be adaptable to the new quickly evolving and changing circumstances in the markets, as well as allow for stability and stimulate knowledge creation, transfer and innovation. At the same time, challenges related to fair labour in the digitized economy and ethical issues related to the use and application of big data, collaborative platforms and online participation should not be ignored. For governments, the digital era increases the ability to support the economy with evaluation, better tools, and measures, underlying their decisions on policy-making, but this requires data availability and knowledge to process them. We invite who to share their insights and considerations with us and thereby contribute to a high-level academic debate.

The opening ceremony of Davos, Switzerland in January 2018 was the first witness of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ambition of seeing India as a $5 trillion economy by 2025. Due to the theme of the World Economic Forum's annual event, "Shared Future in a Fractured World", the Prime Minister invited the global leadership.

He emphasised to share the global business community that Indians consider the world one big family and that our future lies together. In the words of our Prime Minister, "We are moving towards becoming a five trillion US dollars economy by 2025. We will become a largest consumer market in the world by 2025. According to the World Bank and all our growth now is going to be steady and high."

The Prime Minister reiterated the target of $5 trillion goal at Niti Aayog's Governing Council Meeting in New Delhi this June. New Finance Minister took the eyes of all stakeholders towards the $5 trillion target in Budget 2019. To reach the target, the target date open ended to 2025. However, it is not within our capacity to reach the US$ 5 trillion in the next 10 years. Therefore, what is expected to-day is the fourth decade for $5 trillion economy in the next few years. Advancement and Development in the fields of Agriculture Industry and Service Sector in this digital era will determine the achievement of the target, which is not impossible.

Subject and Field Experts in the Theme will share their expertise in the Conference.

MAJOR THEME OF THE CONFERENCE

India is going through a period of unprecedented economic transition, opening its vast consumer base to international firms. However, it is a notoriously difficult place to do business, and having local help for managing business is the key to unlocking the country's vast economic potential. India is an enormous country with vast economic potential, but traversing the diverse and complicated corporate landscape can be a daunting task without the right help. Not only is India one of the fastest growing countries in the world, it is also going through a period of unprecedented economic transition, opening overseas investors from access to its vast and varied market then now. A large, young population and a strong export sector await expanding businesses, with a potential consumer base that far outstrip most other nations in the developed and developing world. Political stability and broad consensus on reforms is also a big pull for expanding companies, and the well developed banking system and vibrant capital market highlight the maturity of its financial system. But doing business in India can be still a troublesome endeavor, and having local help can really make the difference to the success of your venture. The cost of starting a business in India is astronomical, and the procedures involved can be daunting without local knowledge. There are 12 procedures to complete in the initial set up of a business costing 48.8% of income per capita. It takes almost a month (27 days) to complete the tasks on average, which is well above the OECD average of 12 days.

India performs the best of all South Asian economies for ease of getting credit, ranking 23rd in the world according to the World Bank and International Finance Corporation. The 2013 report also to when a 'united cultural registry, which is centralized geographically, become operational in India strengthening access to credit and the secured transaction regime'. India is a cultural hubbed, and business is more about building relations than presenting figures and sums. The polychronic culture can be difficult to adapt to for outsiders, and due diligence into the destination is important before traveling. Despite India opening its borders to international trade, there are still several hurdles to overcome when importing and exporting goods. Several layers of bureaucracy make it very challenging to move goods efficiently, and companies must file a long list of documents before moving goods across borders. In today's business world of chaotic high incidence of competition, managing change is one of the most critical factors for corporate success. Studies show that Indian corporate leaders of the pre-reform era have not been able to sustain their growth rate in sales and profit. They have not been able to withstand the winds of change caused by the new economic realities. Even those players who have demonstrated greater incidence of success have not been seriously considering internationalization of their businesses.

In the present era of globalization, the basic contours of organizing and doing business have been changing at a fast pace. Organizations are increasingly witnessing change, re-engineering, restructuring, downsizing, transformation or merger/acquisition. If a question is asked: "what characterizes today's business compared to that 15 years ago," the obvious answer invariably is likely to be: "making and coping with change." In the corporate history, this period will be described as "the age of change," "the age of chaos," "the age of upheaval," "the age of uncertainty." Besides globalization, this dispensation is being caused by technological changes and information revolution. The demands of managing change have also necessitated a redefinition in the roles of employees, employees, trade unions and the state. It would be difficult to imagine a situation where companies may sit pretty on past laurels for long; they are likely to be under dynamic tension. It is also important to note that managing change is generally not done with the requisite sensitivity. Companies often commit blunders in handling change which may prove very costly. Also, much of change is managed in a way which produces demoralization, fear and apprehensions amongst employees, which impedes organizational performance. Managing change involves taking strategic decisions as well as planning and implementing performance improvement agenda through more efficacious management of systems, processes and people. Women in today's business environment will be those who are able to efficaciously manage the transformation agenda. In the context of the above scenario, it is important to ask as to what is in store for the Indian corporate sector.

Some of the contemporary business trends that are noticeable in the changing new economy at the global level are as follows:

- Big-sized companies, venture capitalists, and global consulting firms are largely driving today's economy;
- Strategic alliances, and mergers and acquisitions are taking place as devices to intensify competition;
- Virtualization of organizations is being resorted to in a big way to help promote a larger degree of co-operation even amongst competitors so as to attempt more effective organizational survival.

- The incidence of customization in manufacturing as well as services sectors operations is increasing;
- Product life cycles are becoming shorter resulting in constant need for research and innovation;
- Bureaucratic organizational structures are being dis-oriented to expedite decision-making for more effective tapping of business opportunities;
- The lines separating different businesses are getting blurred as technology and markets have been converging fast, giving rise to new opportunities for growth;
- Corporate are searching for appropriate talent which can be expected to deliver high degree of performance under rapidly changing conditions; and
- Effective people management and change management strategies are being evolved to cope with the emergent realities.

Doing business in India can be challenging in many different aspects and relies heavily on slow down economy, Taxation Policy, inadequate Technology, Underemployment, bureaucracy etc., At the moment, the country is turning on the edge of its food production and finds it challenging to keep track with the rapidly growing population. To serve their Indian market more efficiently. In this scenario, it is believed that both at the global and country levels only the best companies are likely to thrive over a long period of time.

It is the right time to have a Conference at International Level to discuss and disseminate the information and knowledge about the business in the changing global environment. Hence, the College and the Department as a hub of knowledge organize the Conference. The Conference mainly focuses on "Opportunities and Challenges of Business in the Changing Scenario".

OBJECTIVES OF THE CONFERENCE

- To highlight the opportunities available for Business in India under the changing National and International Environment;
- To focus on the problems and challenges threatening business in India in the changing Business Scenario at the National and Global Level;
- To analyse and comprehend the Business Opportunities and Challenges based on the finding of the Research in the related areas;

UGC Sponsored International Conference on "CHALLENGES TO ENVIRONMENT AND HEALTH"

Seminar Report

A one-day International Conference on "Challenges to Environment and Health" (ICCEH - 2020) was organized in the P.G department of Zoology, Jamal Mohamed College (Autonomous), Tiruchirappalli on 30th January 2019. This is the second International Conference in our department for the consecutive years. Biodiversity Conservation, Molecular Biology, Aquaculture, Marine Biology, Vector Biology, Bioremediation, Radiation Biology, Animal Biotechnology, Vermiculture Technology, Environmental Toxicology, Environmental Biotechnology and Environmental Microbiology were the theme areas of the conference. 230 delegates from following reputed institutions participated in the event.

About 250 research papers were received from Faculty members, Research scholars, PG and UG students. Among them, selected 169 papers were selected for presentation. All the accepted works were published in abstract book with ISBN number. I am very proud to tell that this is the first time, an abstract book has published in our Department with this much paper and also with an ISBN number. In this regard, I wholeheartedly thank all the participants for their immense contributions in the form of abstracts of their research works. Another remarkable thing to mention here is the enthusiasm and interest of faculty members showed for presenting their important research work here in this event. All the research scholars together with the faculty members has succeeded in their attempts to present their great works here, which helped to motivate young minds and to create a scientific temper among the student community. To recognise their efforts, we have also distributed prizes for the best presentations.

J. FRANCIS BORGIO, Chairman, Department of Epidemic Diseases Research & Associate Professor of Molecular Genetics, Department of Genetic Research, Institute for Research and Medical Consultation (IRMC), Imam Abdulrahman Bin Faisal University, Dammam, Saudi Arabia inaugurated the seminar in the morning and delivered a lecture on "GENE-ENVIRONMENT (G×E) INTERACTIONS & PHENOMICS". Dr.S. ISMAIL MOHIDEEN, Principal, Jamal Mohamed College presided over the function. Dr. A.K. KHAJA NAZEEMUDEEN, Secretary and Correspondent of the college, Hajee.M.J.
